The Need

Across industries, employers face a pressing demand to track employees' health and comply with federal and state COVID-19 workplace protocols. This is critical to workforce safety, risk management, and business operation. But ever-changing standards and administrative burden make timely health screening a major challenge.

Time Data Systems and Cordata's cloud-based COVID-19 Health-Tracking Solution addresses this urgent need.

The Solution

Cordata's COVID-19 health-screening software integrates seamlessly with Time Data System's employee scheduling platform.

- Scheduled employees receive daily 30-second surveys confirming their health and risk of COVID-19 exposure
- Survey results are sent instantly to the scheduling platform, where they can be viewed and verified by managers
- Managers don't have to wait for last-minute in-person health surveys
- Healthy employees are approved to punch in to work
- Employees who may be ill are removed from the schedule for an appropriate time period and replaced

In accordance with ADA regulations, all employee health records are stored securely and kept separate from regular personnel files.
